

CAROLINE HENNIGS

Caroline Hennigs, engineer in biotechnology, is working for Naturstoff-Technik GmbH in Osterholz-Scharmbeck, Germany since 2015 where she is responsible for the business development sector. After receiving her engineering degree from Hochschule für Angewandte Wissenschaften Hamburg (Germany) in 1998, she started her carrier in the cosmed department of Beiersdorf AG in Hamburg, Germany. In 2001, she became project manager in ttz Bremerhaven (Germany). In 2005 she took over the responsibility for the natural resources group at the food department of ttz.

She has got more 15 years' experience in applied research in bioprocesses and food ingredients using renewable resources. She has elaborated, coordinated and participated in more than 15 European and national research projects as well as direct R&D contracts within European food industry.

